

DANZIG CLERK SHORT $145,000, GIVES UP

Gage, Brokers' Confidential Man, Lost Money in Stock Speculation.

WENT INTO CURB POOL

Had Accounts in Fictitious Names—Most of Thefts Since August 23.

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF

Brooding Over Wrongdoing, in Hiding in Hotel Since Disappearance.

Henry P. Gage, charged with embezzling $115,000 from Danzig & Co., stock brokers, 100 Broadway, with whom he had been employed fifteen years, surrendered to the District Attorney yesterday and made a full confession. He said that when detectives were looking for him since his disappearance last Wednesday he had been living in the Hotel Theresa, 125th street and Seventh avenue. There, he continued, he brooded and worried over his predicament until he felt he could stand it no longer and decided to reveal all.

Assistant District Attorney Hastings and Gage's lawyer, Bernard Sandler, said Gage's defections were the result of three years of stock market speculation. According to Sandler, Gage became so desperate over his affairs last Wednesday night that he attempted to destroy himself by leaping from a window of an uptown building, but was restrained by friends.

After Gage had been taken to Police Headquarters to be locked up, Mr. Hastings said:

"The defendant Gage, voluntarily appeared before me and made a complete statement of his embezzlement and a complete statement, likewise, of why he did it and what it went for. At the present time I cannot divulge all he said.

"He said that he first commenced the irregularities three years ago, in a small way, that he traded in his own name on some low priced curb stocks. He then conceived the plan of opening two fictitious accounts and traded on them, inactive. He said that the accounts then showed losses—small losses at first, and in order to make up the deficit he went into a pool on the street and withdrew the moneys and securities, at one time, to uphold his end of the pool.

"He said he never left the city, and he surrendered because he had thought the matter over and wanted to make a clean break of it."

Jerome J. Danzig, head of Danzig & Co., who had been present while Gage was making his confession, said later: "The moneys and securities, wrongfully taken were $45,000 in cash and $70,000 in curb securities, a total of $115,000. The investigation for the firm has been concluded, and the loss will not be covered by the National Security Company's $100,000 bond, so that the loss to the firm will not exceed $15,000. Practically all of the amounts taken were taken since August 23."

THREE SCHOOLBOYS MISSING; FOURTH LIES IN THE MORGUE

'7 B Grade' Arithmetic Test Card Only Clew to Unclaimed Body—Italian Reports English Wife Gone With Baby—Two Others Disappear.

A boy was killed by a Lexington avenue subway train at the Worth street station last Wednesday night, and since then the body has been in the morgue unclaimed. The only suggestion of identification was an arithmetic test card dated September 11 and marked "7 B Grade," found in a pocket. This bore a name, "Andrew Matello," but carried no address. Of seven persons, three of them school boys, reported missing, the description does not fit that of the lad in the morgue.

Dominick Termini, 763 Thirty-ninth street, Brooklyn, reported that his wife, Arnie, 22, disappeared Thursday morning, taking with her their one-year-old son, Salvatore. The husband said that his wife had $250 in cash and had been booked passage for England, her former home.

Miss Henna C. Rowe, 22, who lives at the Holy Cross Home, 300 East Fourth street, was reported missing since Saturday morning, when she left the home to go to the offices of the Educational Society, 303 Fifth avenue where she was a clerk.

Henry Lawrence, 70, of 162 Stanton street, a laborer, has been missing since September 5. Solomon Sternberg of 178 Livingston street, a friend, said Lawrence had $200 when he went away.

The three missing schoolboys were last seen by their parents when they left on the way to school. Dominick de Luca, 14, of 88 Thompson street, and Carmelo Nicholas, 15, of 329 East 106th street, have been missing since Monday. Alfonso Bennet, 14, of 338 Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn, disappeared Wednesday. Nicholas's mother believes he has enlisted in either the army or navy.

TWO MORE BROKER FIRMS BANKRUPT

Partners of One Concern Summoned to Explain Bucketting Complaints.

Receivers in involuntary bankruptcy were appointed yesterday for two more stock brokers in the financial district. They are Julius Sykes, 25 Broad street, trading with a partner as Sykes & Co., and Edwin R. Greenfield and Kenneth Smith, 25 Broadway, trading as Win Greenfield & Co.

Both were small concerns, their liabilities running to about $20,000 and $25,000 each, with office furniture or less as assets.

Partners in Sykes & Co. have been summoned to appear before the District Attorney Monday and explain complaints of bucketting, and the members of the other concern seem to have vanished over night. It was stated by Max Rockwood, attorney for George W. Seabury, Emilio Rodriguez and Edith Blinnen, petitioning creditors in the Greenfield case, that he had been unable to find the defendants and that the furniture and fixtures in their offices had disappeared. Francis X. Dineen was appointed receiver.

The petition alleges that the office of the firm is now closed and that the alleged bankrupt has ceased to continue in business, it being asserted that "the telephone tickets have disappeared." The necessity of taking care of the remaining assets for fear they may be dissipated and lost to general creditors are given as the reasons for the petition.

The books went out of the Sykes office ahead of the appointment of the receiver also, but it was stated that Milton C. Welsman, lawyer for Julius Sykes, and R. H. Kearney, in Sykes & Co., would surrender the books to Stephen C. Baldwin, receiver, with the stipulation that they be withheld from the District Attorney.

Bernard F. Schreiber, Assistant District Attorney in charge of bucket shop prosecutions, has been swamped with complaints against J. C. Rabner & Co. since the failure of the Consolidated house. Four new complaints appeared before him yesterday afternoon, including one aged woman, who was so worn out with her troubles that Mr. Schreiber was compelled to cease talking about Rabner & Co. and have an attendant administer cold water to prevent her from fainting. She offered to be assisted from Mr. Schreiber's office.

Mr. Schreiber said that his examination into the Rabner case and other recently failed stock brokers indicates that every broker in the financial district who has bucketted orders to any extent is fighting desperately to prevent the rising market from bringing a receiver upon him. Rabner & Co., he said, resorted to an intensive "dynamite" campaign—the intensive use of telephone sucker lists—for the last two weeks before insolvency in an effort to bring enough money into the office to meet the demands for payment of profits.

There is every indication, he said, that there will be other failures unless a falling market should come to the rescue of bucket shop operators.

SUTHERLAND ARRIVES ON GEORGE WASHINGTON

Reads at Quarantine of Appointment to Supreme Court.

The United States liner George Washington, in yesterday with throngs of returning Americans, had to leave 300 persons at Bremen for lack of accommodations. All her officers resigned their rooms to voyagers, and J. Barrett Small of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who had been aboard on business for the Shipping Board, said that all its vessels would be filled on their westward trips in the next two months.

F. A. Thompson, commissioner of the Shipping Board, who looked over shipping conditions in Europe, said that he found the demand for transportation so large and that on his return to Washington he would recommend the reconditioning of the Mount Vernon and the Agamemnon.

Other arrivals were George Sutherland of Utah, former United States Senator, who, it is said, learned of his appointment to the United States Supreme Court from a newspaper he read at Quarantine; Charles H. Stimming, director-general of the North German Lloyd Line; Gen. and Mrs. G. F. Cowney, returning from vacation; Angelo Centi, assistant adviser to Admiral Benson of the Shipping Board; and Representatives Funk and Otisfield.

SUBPOENA HIRSHFIELD FOR MARKETS INQUIRY

Investigators Playing Politics, Commissioner Says.

Immediately upon receipt yesterday of a subpoena from District Attorney Ruston of Kings county to appear before the Grand Jury investigating the Department of Markets David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, declared he would stand on his constitutional rights and refuse to waive his immunity.

"This is a political investigation," he asserted, "and I am satisfied it is being conducted solely for political reasons and to discredit the Hyman administration. I am satisfied the investigation will not be fair."

"I am going on with my investigation," he said, "and show up the clique that has been trying to break up the market department."

FAILED BROKER HELD IN EMBEZZLEMENT

Little of Chandler Brothers & Co. Bailed; His Associate Is Sought.

Edward S. Little, a partner of Chandler Bros. & Co., stock brokers, who failed last July for $300,000, was released yesterday in $5,000 bail after his arrest upon a charge from Harrisburg, Pa., accusing him of embezzlement.

A detective of the Old Slip station apprehended Little Thursday upon a telegraphic request from J. Frank Page, chief of police of Harrisburg. He was arraigned before Magistrate McQuade, who set September 25 as the date for examination, by which time it was expected extradition papers would have arrived from Pennsylvania. Magistrate McQuade refused bail and Little passed the night in the Tombs, but obtained bail yesterday from Judge Mancuso in General Sessions.

It was stated that Lewis E. Waring, also a partner in Chandler Bros. & Co., is wanted upon a similar complaint, but has not been apprehended.

Both Waring and Little are defendants in a suit in Nassau county for the recovery of money in connection with the misappropriation of 100 shares of Erie Railroad stock.

Testimony in the bankruptcy proceedings had indicated that the concern was more than $1,000,000 short for a month or two prior to the formal bankruptcy. Bucketting also is alleged against their firm in the brief of plaintiff's counsel in the Nassau county action.

TERRY MFG. COMPANY IN HANDS OF RECEIVERS

Creditor of New Jersey Firm Files $26,500 Claim.

Judge Martin T. Manton, in the United States District Court, yesterday appointed Louis E. Vilehaber, George S. Daso and John J. Treney ancillary receivers in equity for the Terry Manufacturing Company, Kearny, N. J., manufacturers of hoisting machinery, which firm was made defendant in an equity action in the Federal District Court of New Jersey several days ago.

Yesterday a bill was filed here by James J. Sullivan, creditor and resident of this district, who has a claim of $36,000. Sullivan's petition estimates the liabilities at $122,332 and the assets at $52,339. Sullivan's depression is given as a reason why the firm cannot continue in business. The bonds of the receivers were fixed at $15,000 each.

COURT STOPS QUEENS MUNICIPAL BUS LINES

Prospective Passengers Crowd Stations in Vain.

Every important municipal bus line in Queens, with the exception of one from Bayside to Flushing, was stopped last evening as the result of a temporary injunction granted by Justice Callaghan in Brooklyn on the application of Arthur Peacock, attorney for the New York and Queens County Railway Company.

Argument on a permanent injunction will be before Justice Lewis in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn on Tuesday. The lines affected were those operating between Flushing and College Point, Flushing and Whitestone and Flushing and Jamaica. Home going crowds did not know of the order for some time and waited at the stations where the buses take passengers were crowded for a while. It was alleged that the buses were operating without a franchise.

The Independent Republican Club of the village of Malverne, Nassau county, in which Lieut.-Gov. Jeremiah Wood lived until he had passed a bill that put his street out of Malverne and into the town of Hempstead, has endorsed the candidacy of Col. William J. Donovan to succeed him as Lieutenant Governor. Efforts are being made to defeat Wood's candidates for the Nassau County Committee and for delegates to the State Convention. The club, of which Major G. J. Flynn is secretary, endorsed Judge E. C. Rogers to succeed Charles D. Newton as Attorney General and Theodore Roosevelt for the United States Senate to succeed Senator William M. Calder.

WHAZ AND WGY TO SEND PROGRAMS TOGETHER

Aim to Test Difference of 40 Meters in Wave Length.

Two radio broadcasting stations within fifteen miles of each other will send out programs simultaneously Monday night in an attempt to settle the question of whether a difference of forty meters in wave length is sufficient for owners of radio apparatus to tune out one station in favor of the other.

At the suggestion of Arthur Batchelder, radio inspector of the second district, WGY, the broadcasting station of the General Electric Company in Schenectady, will operate on a 400 meter wavelength Monday evening, while WHAZ, the station of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy will operate on the customary 360 meter wave length. Persons with receiving sets are requested to listen in and determine whether they can satisfactorily separate the programs.

FOURTY TWO YEARS IS BURIED AT HOME

Garrison Laid to Rest at Midnight in Grave at Bridgeton, N. J.

WAS COUNTY CLERK

Fled With Woman He Loved, Taking $25,000 and Leaving Wife.

OFTEN LONGED TO RETURN

Reported to Have Settled in Australia—Wanted Grave Near Home Folks.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. BRIDGETON, N. J., Sept. 15.—After roaming the world a fugitive for more than twenty years, William O. Garrison now lies buried in an unmarked grave in a peaceful country cemetery near his old home town, from which he disappeared mysteriously when a young man with $25,000 public funds and a young woman with whom he was in love.

His death and burial are all covered by the same mystery that concealed his life from the day he walked out of the office of the County Clerk.

August 12, 1902, one of the leading public men in Cumberland county, and bade good-by to his wife and friends, saying he was on his way to Salt Lake City to attend a convention.

Now southern New Jersey is telling again the story of his absconding and is trying to uncover a corner of the mystery that has been the subject of household gossip for years. Men who were Garrison's political associates, now prominent and wealthy, are known to be almost the only ones who are silent and indifferent about these stories. They are men whose names have always been linked in Cumberland county with the scandal and mystery. Bridgeton never has understood the disappearance of the $25,000 bond that Garrison had given when he became County Clerk, or why no greater effort was ever made to find him.

Buried at Midnight.

From two different sources it has become known recently that Garrison died last spring and that his last wish was that his body be sent to the country which he roamed as a boy, that he might find his last rest among the home folks from whom he was exiled by his old crime.

Those who know the facts of the burial have refused to say more than that he died in the country and was buried at midnight in a country cemetery and now lies in an unmarked grave. Officials and others admit this, but declare they will not make known where and how they obtained the information, or the exact spot in which Garrison is buried.

Members of a prominent family in southern Jersey and married to the daughter of a well known family, young Garrison was a leading citizen even in his early manhood and quickly won office. When the shortage was found in his office it was weeks after he had gone away. Then, too, it was found the bond had disappeared. There were anxious days in Bridgeton for some of the County Clerk's associates. It developed that he had for years been using public money for stock speculation.

Sent Letters Back Home.

The young woman who went with him was a confidential clerk in his office. Whether he married her eventually is not known. There are two stories. One is that they were married in Arizona and later went to California. The other tale is that they went to Australia, where he was supposed to have died last spring. But whether he died in California or Australia is not known positively. It is known is not revealed. He left a letter for his family that told what he had done when he was thousands of miles away, and it always had been hinted that he had come back home from his long years after he disappeared. These told of his wanderings and his longing for his native land and old friends, and it is believed that longing never left his mind and was expressed in his last wish to be buried here.

There appears to be no disposition among his relatives or friends to go deeper into the mystery.

WIFE SAYS MAJOR AIMED GUN AT HER

Mamaroneck Man Sued for Separation, Alleging Cruel Treatment.

Major F. Elliot Adams, who served with the American Expeditionary Force, was wounded in France and captured by the Germans, has been sued for separation by Mrs. Aimee M. Adams of Mamaroneck. She alleges he treated her cruelly by swearing, pointing a pistol at her and threatening to shoot her and by failing to contribute to her support. Mrs. Adams asked $60 a week alimony and $500 counsel fees pending the trial of the suit.

Justice F. L. Young in Supreme Court directed that the affidavits be submitted and reserved his decision.

The couple have been married 15 years and have three children. Mrs. Adams alleges her husband has been intoxicated and conducted himself in such manner toward her as to make it unsafe for her to live with him. Major Adams is employed by the American Radiator Co. of Manhattan, and has an income of $4,700 a year. He denied all his wife's charges and alleged that before he left for war he deeded over a $30,000 house at Mamaroneck to his wife, and the underwriting of the deed was to return it to him when he returned from overseas. This, Major Adams says, she has declined to do, but this April she has retained $7,500 in mortgage on the house.

Before the world war Major Adams was for many years in the Seventh Regiment. During the battle of the Argonne he was wounded and captured with the 307th U. S. Infantry and after being wounded was taken to prison by the German soldiers. When he returned his wife did not meet him, his attorney said.

Cohalan for nomination by the Republicans, made another attack yesterday on the bosses. She declares threats have been made that she will be ousted from her leadership after the primaries.

"I am a partisan Republican first, last and all the time," she declares, "but I am also a believer, as most Republicans of my acquaintance are, in a non-partisan judiciary, and I believe I would be false to the glorious ideals of the Republicanism of Lincoln—not the Republicanism of the present day—to all in my power to bring about the reelection of a fearless, able and just judge who has been unanimously endorsed by all the bar associations for renomination and reelection."

Several men in the vicinity thought Fitzgerald was attacking the woman and some demanded an explanation. Detective Sergeant Flood was summoned and arrested the woman on a charge of grand larceny.
